1993 SOJOURN

Lifetime Legacy

Dean Ellen Duggan came to Lowell Technological Institute in 1970 after being a school teacher for the sixth grade from September 1969 to June 1970 at St. John the Evangelist School. Dean Duggan was the first female Resident Director at Lowell Techniccal Institute when housing was first approved for women and from there she advanced to the Assistant Dean of Students in 1977, Associate Dean of Students in 1983 and to her current position of Dean of Students in 1997.

Dean Duggan has contributed much to the students of Lowell Technological Institute, University of Lowell and University of Massachusetts Lowell during the last 27 years. Among those achievements are directing the on-campus housing program, being an advocate, advisor and friend to the disabled student population and working tirelessly to educate students outside of the classroom as well as support their academics. Dean Duggan received an award from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1989 recognizing her outstanding performance in support of the University of Lowell.

Dean Duggan has always referred to herself as a “generalist” who does a wide variety of tasks to help wherever needed. Dean Duggan supports such tasks as commencement, upgrading services to students, writing bid documents, establishing task forces and committees, seeking to involve students in decision making at the University and community service with the City of Lowell. As Dean of Students, she also supports the following offices: Residence Life, ALANA, Student Health Services, Counseling, Disability Services, Student Activities Student Centers and Commuter Services, Student Mailrooms, Career Services and Community Services.

Learning

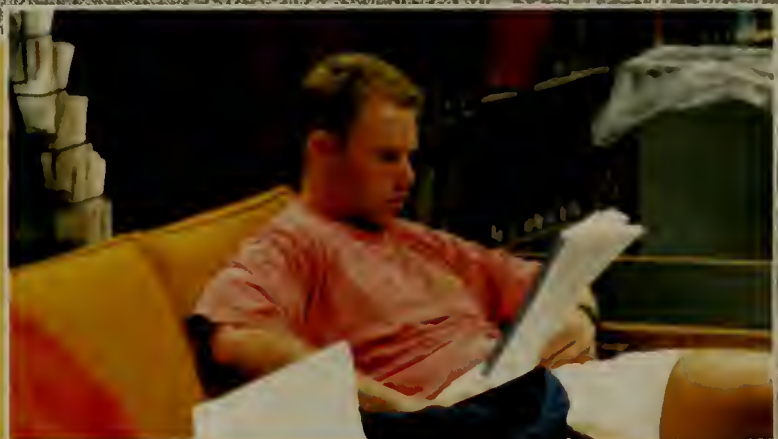

The University offers many opportunities for students to achieve excellence. There are a variety of degrees ranging from Plastics Engineering to Nursing to Business. A main theme at the University is that hard work and determination will lead to success.

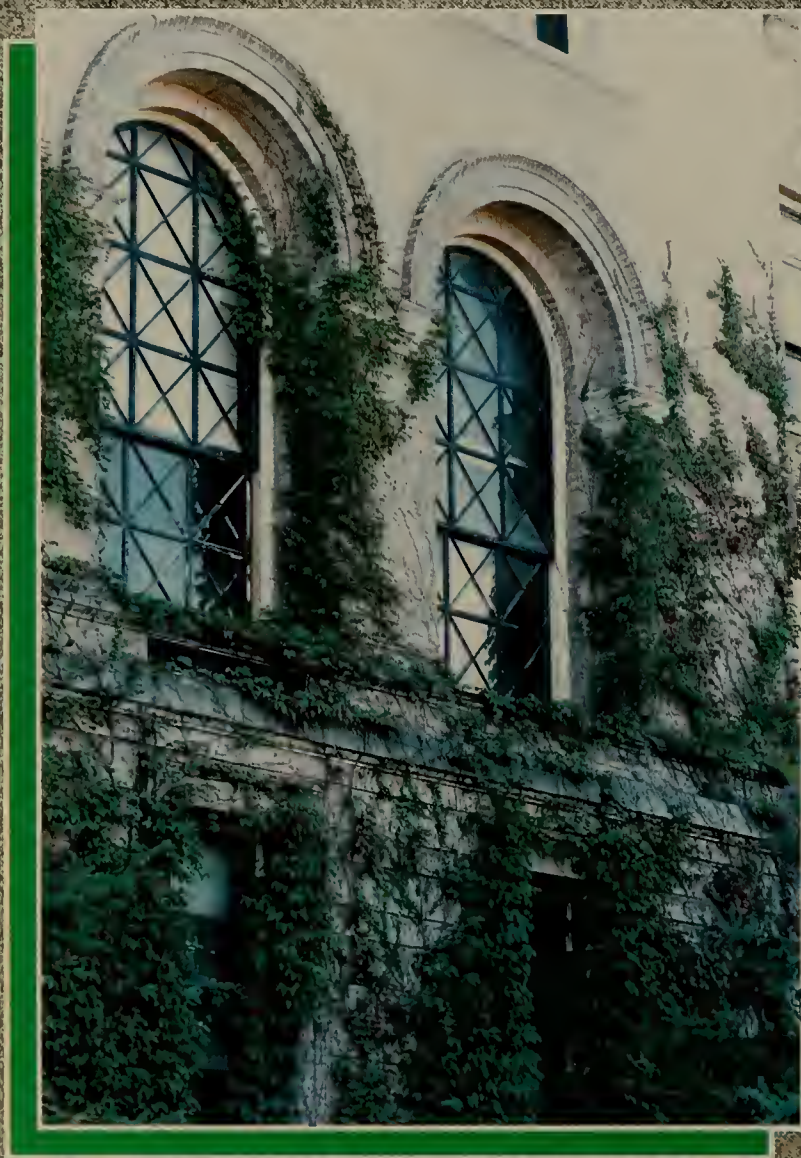

You can often find students holed away in the cubbies at the Lydon or O'Leary Library. Another place to find students studying is in the Mc Gauvran Student Center or any of the commuter cafes. It is also quite possible, on warm days to see students basking in the sun with their books on a patch of grass.

Hilary
Lloyd

Some students find the outdoors a perfect place for that quick review before the big exam.

Part of the University's charm is how the leaves crawl up the buildings. It gives a traditional and historic feeling to Umass Lowell.

Coburn with its new benches and landscaping.

The View

Like other schools in New England, Umass Lowell is a beautiful place. From the sunny, hot weekend that students move in until the winter snow where students hibernate like bears; the changing of the seasons is fun to witness. Warm weather comes to an end quick and soon the leaves begin to turn and fall. In the Fall, the campus is full of trees which make a collage of bright colors. Like the seasons change, so does the campus.

Improvements to the appearance of Coburn have not only made it a lot more pleasing to the eye, but it also made the area more conducive to a more conventional university setting. The new benches now allow a place to squeeze in a cram session before heading into class. Planting shrubs, adding benches, paving roads and renovating the newly named Riverview Parking Lot has given an improved face-lift to South Campus.

DONAHUE HALL

Living Life

The Quad is the place to see and be seen because everyone seems to pass through at some point during the day. It's neighborhood atmosphere makes the quad a popular hangout, whether students are sitting on benches or against a tree reading. If one finds no action in the quad, then McGauvran is the next place to look. There is usually a pool or a ping-pong game going on at any given time throughout the day. People will either be catching up on soaps or music videos, studying or even sleeping if they're not busy catching up with friends. Speaking of catching up, if you're really serious about catching up, then head over to the library. The library is the place to actually do work. The only paradox one might find there is the soda machine on the third floor. The irony is that drinks are not allowed in the library or in the computer lab on the 3rd floor. This lab is important for e'mailing and occasionally an important paper or two.

Speaking of where you can go for beverages, the commuter cafe is the place to go to catch up with friends, grab a quick snack, and relax a little bit. If feeling adventurous, one might want to wander over for an exotic experience of Aramark cuisine.

Stephanie Smith

The South Campus Quad is a place where students can meet with friends, have a quick lunch or just take a break from class.

On warm days it's common to see students hanging around enjoying the scenery.

One of Umass Lowell's finest programs is the music program. There are often free concerts offered by these students in Durgin Hall.

The steps in front of Lydon Library are a great place to sit down and study Living it Up!

Engineering, business, biology and computer science are just a few that leave the students rushing from class to class. With little time to socialize, you will find most students in the commuter cafe, shooting pool, playing ping pong or just talking to blow-off steam before they head on to their next class. Cumnock Hall is always a big attraction to the students of Umass Lowell. From to job fairs to the weekly movie night, the events held there are always fun and worth attending. Also on north campus, in the early morning and hours you can always catch students over in Costello Gym. Lifting weights, shooting hoops or riding the stationary bike; toning-up seems to be such a big . Let's not forget the good 'ole dorms located across from Southwick and Cumnock Hall. While they seem to be separated from the rest of campus-life, you'd be at the family-like atmosphere.

Sheri Kovalchek

Cumnock houses the Chancellor's Office as well as movies and concerts.

The area in front of Southwick is a common place to catch students reading.

The ever moving bus stop is now located on the other side of Fox, where there is no protection from the weather.

The Comforts of Home

Students living on residential north are graced with many comforts of home. The Commons, over in Fox hall is a big gathering place for students to play pool, board games, watch TV and of course snack on food from Mahoney's. Also found in the Fox lobby is the new Multi Purpose Room. This room holds many events, from dances to coffee houses to the college bowl. When students aren't hanging around there you may find them in front of Donahue playing the infamous games "ultimate frisbee" or football.

Leitch and Bourgeois, typically the freshmen dorms, always have some form of excitement. Just walking down the hallways; the doors are open and radios are blaring. The rooms are decorated with posters, picture collages and other things that show individuality.

Sheri Kovalchek

Fox is proud to announce The Commons, complete with pool, darts, air hockey and board games. The room also plays host to Mahoney's where students can indulge in midnight snacks and a quick breakfast.

EVENTS

vents on campus

Here at the University of Massachusetts Lowell a lot of work goes into planning any given event. Most events are planned by students with the help of faculty advisors. One of the main programming boards is the Activities Commission. This group is responsible for concerts, coffee-houses, comedians and the annual Spring Carnival and Family Day. Another programming group is the Residence Hall Association. This group primarily focuses on entertainment for those students who live on campus.

Winners Among Us

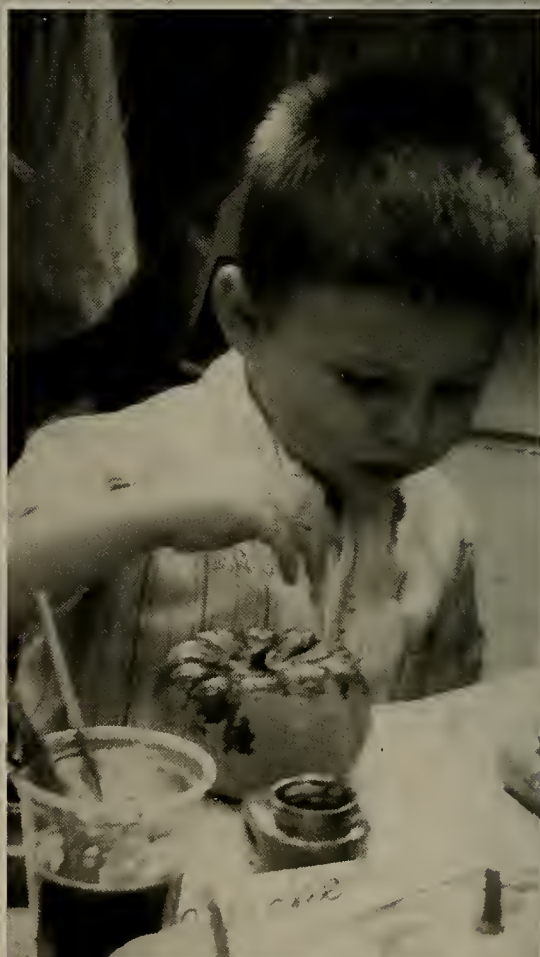

There are also academic events such as the College Bowl.

Two Semi Formals are hosted by the Residence Hall Association during the academic year.

Family Day is co-hosted by Activities Commission and the Residence Hall Association.

Activities Commission members attend NACA, a conference where they learn new ideas to bring back to campus.

he Tsongas Arena

One of the most memorable events this year was the opening of Umass Lowell's new Arena. Dedicated to the late Paul Tsongas, The Arena is where the Umass Lowell Hockey Team will now play. Those in attendance included the Tsongas Family and Governor Paul Celluci.

The Tsongas Arena will also play host to concerts and other events that will be open to the City of Lowell.

Lowell College Fest

The Lowell College Fest is an attempt to draw college students into the city of Lowell and patronize the local businesses. The day began at noon with a barbecue and four live bands in front of Middlesex Community College. The Phantom started off followed by James O'Brian, La Salavli, Take Two, and the UMass Lowell Marching Band. The bands were followed by live entertainment at the Boarding House Park. The KISS 108 van was there with free promotional items. WJUL broadcasted from Barnes & Nobles and featured interviews of those people who influence students here on campus. Barnes & Nobles bookstore, the Coffee Mill coffee shop, and other local stores offered coupons and discounts in the spirit of the days festivities. and Caricature artists were on hand, as well as a free raffle. Psychics were also on hand with free readings. With the coverage of WJUL and KISS 108 FM, College Festival '97 was a success!

Activities Commission Director, Sarah Hefferan, welcomes the parents, students as well as faculty, staff and administration to the day's events.

Family Day

Family Togetherness

A special day is set aside each fall semester at U-Mass Lowell to celebrate Family Day. This event is sponsored by the Activities Commission, R.H.A., S.G.A., The Office of Student Activities, Student Centers and Commuter Services, The Office of Residence Life, The Center for Diversity and Pluralism, and The Graduate Student Association. An invitation is extended to all students, faculty, staff and their families to come and enjoy a day of fun-filled activities.

A diverse schedule of events includes activities for every member of the family, both young and old. Registration, followed by an official welcome from Chancellor Hogan starts the day. Caricature artists as well as "old time" photos were available throughout the day. Highlights of the day include a performance by Inca Son, a Magic Show, and a Comedy Show. Let's not forget to mention the pony rides and moon walk just for the kids.

Many clubs and organizations sell food and refreshments while others host games such as Jeopardy and paintball. Vendors from all over New England were on hand to sell a variety of craft items and clothes. The casino, where one can win prizes, seems to be an all time favorite for many. Family Day can be summed up as a special day of fun at U-Mass Lowell shared by students, faculty, staff and their families.

Indigo Girls

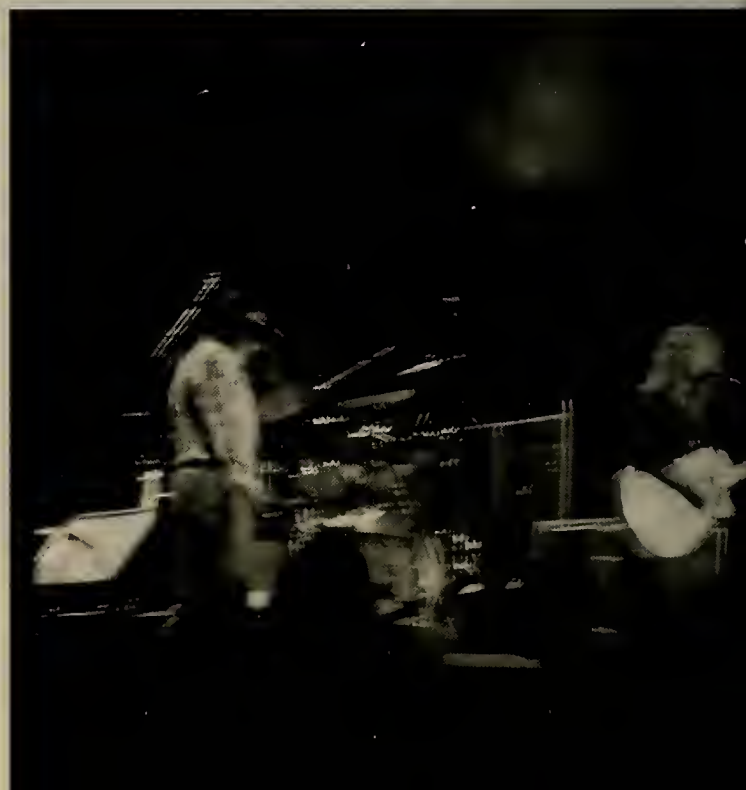

‘Closer to Fine’

October 26th 1997, the Activities Commission brought the Indigo Girls to town. The Lowell Memorial Auditorium rocked all night.

It could quite possibly be the best concert ever to come to Umass Lowell. They reminded us that ‘it isn’t always love when its something new’. One thing that is not a ‘mystery’ is these women proved a good performance can come from the ‘power of two’.

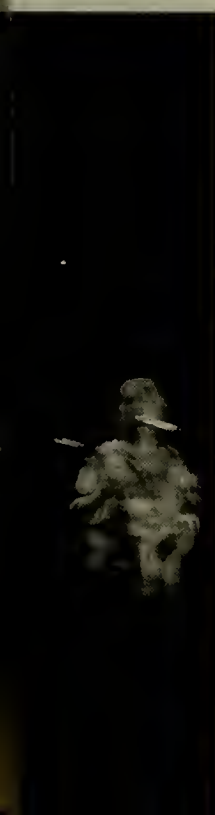

Dayna Bergin

Security was so tight that taking photos was difficult. Although blurry, this photo actually shows the Indigo Girls and the opening act on stage performing a song together.

Halloween Week was filled with spooky trips and creepy stories. Activities Commission, The Residence Hall Association (RHA) and the Commuter Student Task Force planned a week of activities that were guaranteed to make your skin crawl.

The week kicked off with a trip to Spooky World. Although it was raining, a small group of students made the 40 minute trip to Berlin, MA for the haunted hayride. RHA sponsored a story teller the next night. Mouth-watering pies and muffins were served for refreshments after the story. On Thursday night Serial Killer Speaker James

There were also children decked out as their favorite cartoon character or scariest witch. Roaming the decorated halls of the dorms in search of candy and prizes, the kids went home with their bags filled.

All types of Umass Lowell students showed up to Resident Hall Association sponsored Casino Night to try their luck in hopes of going home winners. Through out the night, students placed bets at the Blackjack table and the Roulette wheel in hopes of hear the words “Dealer busts” or “Red 21”. As the night went on, mindsets changed and students were now focusing on just breaking even. Eventhough mocktails were being served and laughter filled the air, it could not lift the concentrated faces of those students involved in serious games. Some students left smiling and some did not, but for the first Casino Night of the year, it was a fun and great success.

The AIDS Memorial Quilt

As slow, sloothing music played in the background of the McGauvran Student Center, hundreds of UML students took the time to pay their respects to those honored by the AIDS Memorial Quilt. Although portions of the quilt were on display for only a few hours on December 3rd, the effect of the quilt will last much longer. Throughout the day, students were able to pick up red ribbons, information and view a video on the Quilts 1996 display in Washington D.C.

The quilt was brought to UML by the Bisexual, Gay and Lesbian Alliance (Bi-GALA) and the Massachusetts Student Public Interest Research Group (MASSPIRG), in observance of World AIDS Day December 1st. While some walked through McGauvran as if the Quilt did not exist, others took the time to read and touch it. The Quilt has been used as a tool for educating people about the AIDS virus since it was first created in 1987 when it only had one name. In the last ten years the Quilt has grown to include over 71,000 names, is the length of 16 football fields, and weighs over 50 tons. Each panel is approximately 6ft x 3ft, or the size of a human coffin.

A thrilling adventure in the ruff!

In September, the Activities Commission sponsored a White Water Rafting trip to the Kennebec River in Maine. The group left Fox Hall at about ten o'clock Saturday morning and it took about five hours to get up to Maine. Upon our arrival we were served dinner and then finished the evening off with some light canoeing and kayaking. That night we slept in cabin tents, sat around the fire and made smores. We all agreed it was one of the coldest night of our lives.

On Sunday morning, we got up very early and after eating breakfast, off to the rapids we went! The group of us were dressed in life jackets and wet suits that were still wet from the day before. Needless to say, they were not much help in keeping us warm. However, once we started down the river, we hardly noticed the difference. Running the rapids was an awesome and unforgettable experience. At first we were all a bit nervous, but once you learn the commands, you're a pro. At one point, we were allowed to get out of the boat and swim in the river. Three exciting hours later we reached our destination and not one of our boats flipped over. White Water Rafting, what a rush!

Going to Alabama

The Catholic Center offers service trips to Alabama, Kentucky, and Peru.

One Catholic Center Habitat for Humanity Service Trip left on December 27, 1997 and returned on January 6, 1998. Traveling in two vans, 14 volunteers left for Alabama on a 'mission from God'. The group stayed at the Blessed Trinity Shrine Retreat House run by Nuns and Brothers of The Most Blessed Trinity in Holy Trinity, Alabama. The whole basis and premise of the trip was to aid the residents by improving their living conditions. We repaired windows, fixed doors, underpinned houses, replaced floors, supplied firewood, and rebuilt rooms for the less fortunate.

This very rewarding experience helped transform the group spiritually and will long be remembered.

Paul E. Tsongas Arena

Honored Guest and Dignities (spell check)

First Night At The Tsongas Arena - January 27, 1998

Service, sensitivity and support are three characteristics that embody any great leader. Those qualities were at the forefront of the ideology of Paul E. Tsongas and helped shape his extraordinary 30-year legacy of public service. For in all the causes that he joined and all of the countless people he helped during his lifetime, there was one facet of his career that remained constant:

His love for the people and the City of Lowell.

The Paul E. Tsongas Aren symbolizes his lifelong commitment to improving the quality of life for Paul Tsongas was many things to many people during his lifetime. His political expertise and experience ran the gamut from city councilor to United States Representative to the United States Senate. As a presidential candidate in 1992, Tsongas took his message to the nation, and his views have helped shape a country that he loved so much. a love that was only topped by his devotion to his wife, Niki, and their three daughters, Ashley, Katina and Molly.

Opening Night

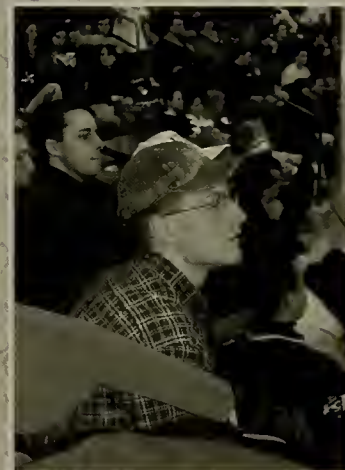

Tonight, the opening of Paul E. Tsongas Arena is a tribute to his lifelong work on behalf of his constituents in the city and the Merrimack Valley. It joins a superlative list of projects sponsored and championed by Senator Tsongas for the economic renaissance of Lowell. This magnificent three-level facility consist of 208,967 square feet of space and seats 6,400 people, and it will serve as the home hockey venue for both the University of Massachusetts Lowell and the American Hockey League's Lowell Lock Monsters, which Senator Tsongas helped entice to the Merrimack Valley. Additionally, Tsongas Arena will host numerous concerts, sporting events, conventions, family shows and other cultural events.

In his book The Road from Here: Liberalism and Realism in the 1980's, Senator Tsongas wrote: "Lowell's rebirth is mostly a result of private-sector confidence in the economic viability of the community was the main factor.

"In sharp contrast to earlier decades, the public and private sectors in Lowell are now engaged in an ardent embrace. The liaison has produced the best of both worlds: the private sector is making a profit and the public sector is enjoying the political security of a generally happy constituency. In the process, the city is becoming known throughout the state and nationally as a prototype of urban renaissance."

The Paul E. Tsongas Arena symbolizes his lifelong commitment to improving the quality of life for people in Lowell and throughout our country. From the Lowell City Council to the United States Senate to the presidential campaign trail, his dedication to public service and the public good is an example to be honored.

This arena is a monument to his ideals for the city that was his home.

Keeping Warm During the Cold

Winterfest Week was a big success. The highlights of the week included two days of candlemaking, a night filled with humor from a variety of comedians, a College Bowl Competition, and The Battle of the Bands.

The College Bowl featured the best students from a previous school wide competition v.s. volunteer professors. The friendly match went to the professors, but it was still a great way for the team of students to warm up for the regional conference held at Northeastern University. This event was sponsored by the Honors Program and the Activities Commission.

The finals for the Battle of the Bands was held in Cumnock Auditorium, it was the last major event of Winterfest Week. Many bands competed for the chance to open at Spring Carnival. All of the bands were excellent, but Dr. Smooth stole the show taking first place via judge's approval.

PERSONAL STATEMENTS

Begun in Hyannis in 1990, the Clothesline Project has four main purposes: to bear witness to the victims and survivors of relationship violence; to encourage the healing process in the loss of loved ones; to educate, document, and raise awareness regarding the extent of family/dating violence; to provide nationwide support and education. The clothesline project is a visual display demonstrating personal experience of self or a loved one.

Peacefest '98

Spectrum, LASA (Latin American Student Association), AC (Activities Commission), and RHA (Residence Hall Association) sponsored Peacefest '98 with a performance by comedian Emmy Gay during Fear No People Week. Latin American dance music was pumped through the air while people exhibited their dancing moves. There were other performers that took to the stage. One of the highlights was when two girls teamed up to sing the duet 'Count on Me' by Whitney Houston and CeCe Peniston. The superb dancing would break about every 20 minutes to allow individuals to speak out against prejudices in the world. Emmy Gay, who hosted the event, wove her jokes throughout the night, and was well received by the audience.

Under the Influence

The audience was warmed up by the antics and subtle humor of the two comedians brought here by the Activities Commission.

The night before Spring Carnival has always been a memorable one. This year was no exception.

The Activities Commission sponsored event, kicked off the night with two comedians. This was followed by UMass Lowell's own Dance Team. The UML Dancer's upbeat performance and unique dance moves, drew quite the crowd.

The final performer of the night was Frank Santos, the adult rated hypnotist. After selecting a group of individuals who could be put under, Frank had them experience everything from missing body parts to delusions that they were the Mighty Morphine Power Rangers. While they made all of those that attended laugh, nothing was quite as funny as the participants' faces when they heard what they had done.

Spring Carnival

A Plethora of Fun

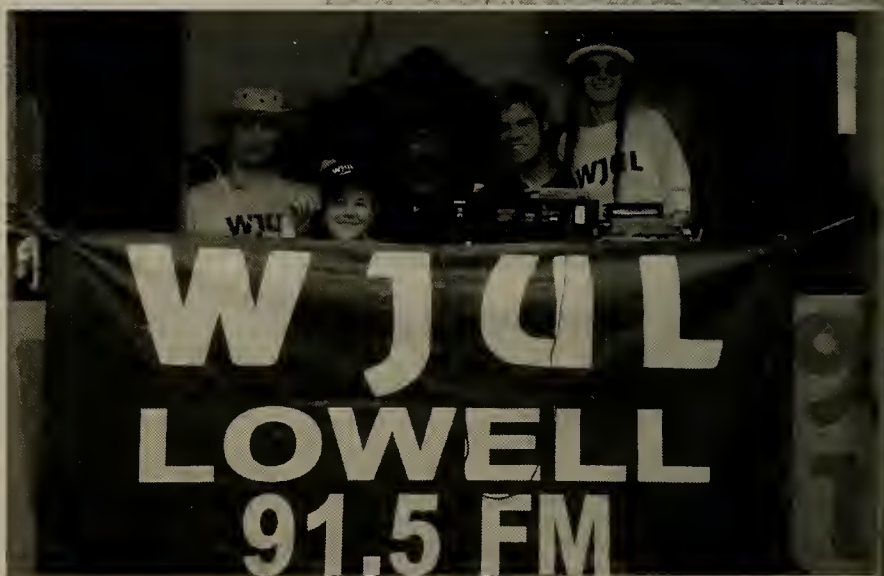

This year's Spring Carnival was as successful as ever. With a large number of clubs selling anything from t-shirts to Mexican food on a beautiful Spring day, this year's student turnout was huge.

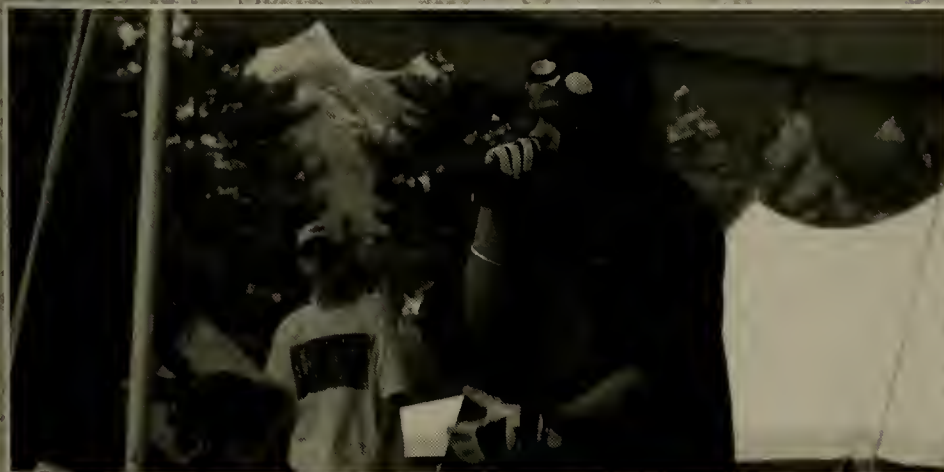

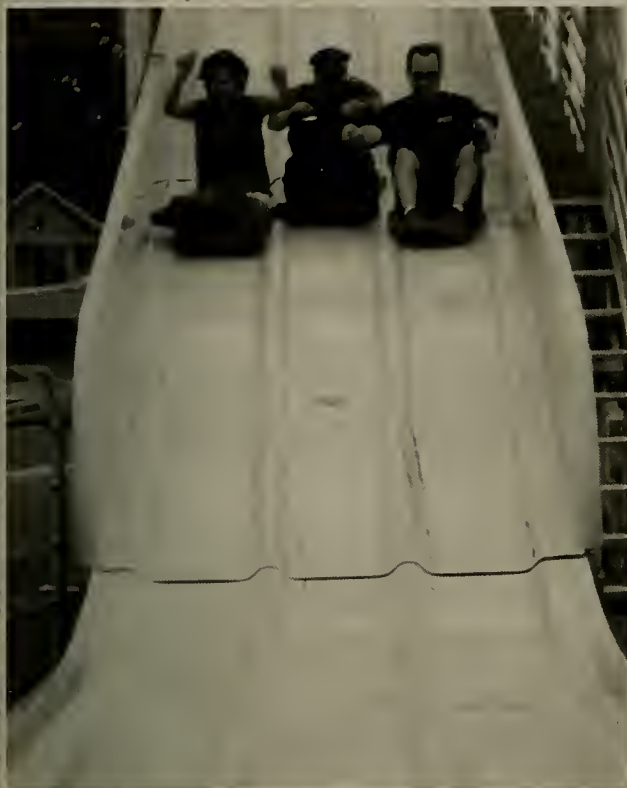

Inflatable rides littered the football field behind Costello Gym challenging the athletic ability of students. There was a mountain to climb and a two person obstacle course that pitted contestants against each other.

Some of the more traditional carnival activities included rides such as the scrambler and slide, caricature artists, and fake tattoo designers.

But what really drew a crowd was the sounds of Das EFX preceded by this year's Battle of the Bands' winner Dr. Smooth and Goldfinger.

All in all, Spring Carnival brought the University together for a day of food, fun, and friendship. Sterling Viehoever Thousands converged on Calcutta to mourn the passing of Nobel Prize winning humanitarian Mother Teresa, who died Sept. 5 of a heart attack. She was 87.

Mir, the 12-year-old space complex, suffered a host of mishaps during a joint Russian-American venture, including a near-fatal collision in June that punctured one of its scientific research modules. The aging complex is a test-bed for the international space station Alpha, the first components of which are due to be launched in 1998.

Comedic star Chris Farley was found dead in his Chicago apartment Dec. 18. Farley, 33, who spent several seasons on NBC's "Saturday Night Live" and starred in several movies, including "Tommy Boy," died of an apparent heart attack.

The Florida Marlins captured their first-ever World Series championship by defeating the Cleveland Indians in seven games. Following the triumph, several marquee players were traded to make the organization more profitable.

In its debut season, the WNBA made a name for itself in professional sports. Eight teams competed in the women's league with the Houston Comets defeating the New York Liberty, 65-51, in the first championship game.

Millions around the world mourned the tragic death of Princess Diana, who was killed Aug. 31 in Paris during a high-speed car crash. Diana, 36, and her companion, Dodi Fayed, were reportedly being chased by photographers who were following them from the Hotel Ritz. Fayed, along with chauffeur Henri Paul, also died when the Mercedes crashed in a tunnel along the Seine River. The news sent shock waves around the world and sparked an international debate about the paparazzi's role in the tragedy. An autopsy later revealed Paul was driving legally drunk.

Although a Cambridge, Mass., jury found her guilty Oct. 30 of second-degree murder in the February death of infant Matthew Eappen, British au pair Louise Woodward, 19, was sentenced to time served and released by Judge Hiller Zobel. State prosecutors promised an appeal in 1998.

Chelsea Clinton, 17, left the presidential nest in the fall for Stanford University, beginning her first year of college. She was away from her parents, but not the Secret Service, who were with her on campus.

The city of Carlisle, Iowa, boasted its new population of 3,407 after resident Bobbi McCaughey, 29, gave birth to septuplets. Her delivery of seven healthy babies marked the largest multiple birth ever recorded.

The UMass River Hawk football team opened the inaugural season of the newly formed Eastern Football Conference under second year head coach Sandy Ruggles. The River Hawks faced tougher competition than they had seen in previous years and came through with a 2-7 record.

Several players for the River Hawks earned recognition for outstanding play throughout the season.

Junior offensive tackle Chris Richard was named to the 1997 New England Football Writers Association Division II-III All-Star Team. He anchored the offensive line that helped the River Hawks average 156 rushing yards and nearly 280 total yards per game in 1997. Richard also earned a spot on the 1997 EFC first team all-league squad. Senior co-captain Mark Taylor was named to the EFC Honor Roll twice this season. Senior quarterback John Speidel earned EFC Player of the Week two different times. Senior wide receiver Noel Gourdin earned EFC Honor Roll accolades three times. Junior safety Greg Kouloheras was honored twice by the EFC and ECAC Honor Roll. Freshmen Kevin Harrington and Jeffrey Grieder were both named EFC Rookies of the Week in a two week span.

Field Hockey

The tone for success was set early for a team that was considered relatively young and inexperienced. It seemed a new hero emerged for each contest. Opening day brought a dramatic 5-4 win at Keane State. A tally with one second remaining secured the triumph. That victory was followed two days later by a 4-3 overtime win at Plymouth State. The hero of those two tempo-setting triumphs was none other than two-time All-American senior Shannon LeBlanc, who knocked home the game-winners in both outings and set an example of excellence for her teammates to follow.

A 14-2 mark heading into the final week of the season was a formidable one for the River Hawks. Unfortunately, UMass Lowell came up short in its bid for a post-season berth by falling to regional powers Bentley and Albany. That elusive post-season berth seemed only a small possibility heading into the final match of the year on October 28. However, the River Hawks played like champions throughout that contest at St. Micheal's and used a second-half goal by Stewart to post a 2-1 win, putting a very emphatic exclamation point on a very exciting season.

Men's Soccer

First year Head Coach Ted Priestly began his career at UMass Lowell in fine fashion, leading the River Hawks to a 7-12 record in his initial campaign. Here are some highlights.

Senior Michael Cancado began the season with a goal in the first game and would tally eight more on the season and also added two assists to lead the team in scoring with 20 points.

Senior Jerold White led the way for the River Hawks in the matchup against the Merrimack Warriors. White scored both goals enroute to a 2-1 road victory.

NCAA tournament participant New Hampshire College invaded Cushing Field and handed the River Hawks a tough 2-0 loss, snapping their two game win streak. The team rebounded in fine fashion however, traveling to Stony Brook and handing the Sea Wolves a 3-1 loss.

Sophomore Micheal De Sa and junior Paul Bruno combined with Cancado to earn the River Hawks their first NECC victory of the season. UMass Lowell then returned home for a three game home stand against Bryant, Bridgeport, and Saint Anselm.

A season of ups and downs ended on November 2 as the River Hawks traveled to Sacred Heart and dropped a 2-0 decision. The first season under Priestly proved to be a successful one as the 7-12 record was the best since the 1982 team that went 9-6-2. With time to build on this year's success, the future looks bright for the UMass Lowell soccer program.

Women's Soccer

This past season marked the program's third year as a varsity program. The season had an exciting year with a 6-11-2 overall record and a third place finish in the very challenging New England Collegiate Conference. With captains Melissa Ottaviano, Jennifer Von Handorf, and Heather Ross setting the tone UMass Lowell finished behind New Hampshire College (NCAA 1997 Championship berth) and the 3 time defending and winner of the NCAA Division II 1997 Championship, Franklin Pierce College. This season brought first time accolades to numerous players: Second Team All-Conference honors to Kelly Downs and Heather Ross; Second Team New England Women's Intercollegiate Soccer Association honors to Jackie Maclean and Heather Ross; Second Team National Soccer Coaches Association of America All- New England Regional honors to Heather Ross.

Besides these recognitions, the program broke numerous school and individual records. Freshman Jackie MacLean broke the all time scoring leader record with 36 points (17 goals and 2 assists), was in the top 15 in the nation for goals per game, and made the acclaimed Faces in the Crowd of Sports Illustrated Magazine.

The program will always remeber the three seniors the program is losing, Richelle Hayden, Sara Medici, and Melissa Ottaviano, for their leadership, determination, heart, and most of all, their friendship. We will sadly miss them.

Volleyball

The UMass Lowell volleyball team completed another successful season under head coach Karen McNulty as they posted a 20-17 record. Once again the River Hawks were led by junior Katie Toomey. The outside hitter was named the New England Collegiate Conference Player of the Year and was an All-American candidate. After only three seasons she is the all-time leader in skills with 1404. Senior tri-captains Susan Costello, Jodie Semas, and Stacey Thomas helped to lead the squad to a fourth place finish in the New England Collegiate Conference. Costello was second on the team with 302 kills and 266 digs while Semas added 223 kills and 115 digs. Thomas led the team with 682 set assists before being sidelined with a late season injury.

The River Hawks got off to a rocky start at the beginning of the season, losing to American International to open the season and continued by dropping eight of their first nine before rebounding against Franklin Pierce. That victory led to wins in 13 out of the next 15 matches to improve their record to 13-10. The squad then went on to win five out of their next eight matches heading into the NECC tournament. The River Hawks went 2-2 at the tournament, losing to Stony Brook and NCAA participant New Haven while posting victories over New Hampshire College and Bridgeport.

Sophomores Anne Burke and Kendra Welch rounded out the starters for the River Hawks and each posted career seasons. Burke was a force in the middle as she led the team in blocks with 34 solo and 27 assisted blocks for a total of 61 for the season. Welch was a starter at outside hitter before moving to setter after Thomas was injured. For the season she tallied 92 kills, 510 set assists, 57 service aces and 181 digs. Sophomores Katey Beland and Shannah McArdle were valuable contributors off the bench as Beland made 24 kills, 38 service aces and 168 digs on the season while McArdle added 16 kills and 14 digs in just 45 games played. A pair of freshman, Jennifer Nagle and Staci Potyrala made immediate impacts. Potyrala tallied 165 kills, 159 digs and 38 blocks, while Nagle played a valuable role off the bench for the River Hawks.

Women's Tennis

The UMass Lowell women's tennis team, led by first year head coach Andy Shupe, performed beyond expectations this year as the young squad finished the season with an 0-11 record.

The River Hawks were led by senior Alison Jean who posted a 4-5 record and sophomore Caitlin Orroth who compiled a 4-6 record.

peted at #1 singles spot all season and posted a record of 3-7.

Junior Erin Gaffney showed determination throughout the season and posted two victories in sinlges and doulbes competition.

Freshman Jennifer Lee was also a solid contributor for the young River Hawk squad.

Men's Cross Country

The UMass Lowell men's cross country squad enjoyed another successful season under head coach George Davis. The 1997 season began on September 13 as the team traveled to the Dartmouth Invitational. Junior Brad Klinedinst led the team to a fifth place overall, as he placed eighth at the event.

The highlight of the season came on October 4 as the team captured the Babson Invitational Championship. Klinedinst and junior Jim Johnson took first and second place respectively, while senior Mike Liddell and sophomore Virgil Hammonds also placed in the top ten at the event.

On October 17 the River Hawks traveled to Franklin Park in Boston for the New England Championships. Klinedinst finished 55th out of 244 runners and paced the team to a 23rd place finish, second among Division II schools. The next stop for the River Hawks was the New England Collegiate Conference where they placed third behind a strong showing from Klinedinst. He also took third place and earned All- New England Collegiate Conference honors for his performance. Sophomore Steve Mayol, Senior Mike Liddell and junior Kevin Andriolo each placed in the top 25, finishing 20th, 21st and 22nd respectively.

Sunken Meadow State Park was the last stop for the River Hawks as they traveled to Sunken Meadows, New York for the NCAA Division II East Regional Cross Country Championships on November 8. Klinedinst once again paced UMass Lowell, finishing third and leading the team to a fifth place finish. His time of 34:10 qualified him for the NCAA Cross Country Championship at University of Wisconsin- Parkside on November 22. Klinedinst capped off his fantastic season by finishing 50th out of the 130 runners at the event.

Women's Cross Country

The UMass Lowell women's cross country squad began the 1997 season at the Dartmouth Invitational on September 13. Freshman Nicole Herring paced the River Hawks, finishing 12th and leading the team to a fourth place finish. This was the beginning of what would be a very successful campaign for both Herring and the team. The next stop was Franklin Park in Boston for the Codfish Bowl. Herring took first place at the event with a time of 18:40 and the team captured second place at the event. Sophomore Jaime Gleason finished in eighth place to pace the River Hawks.

The Babson College Invitational was the next stop for the River Hawks and it proved to be a record setting day. The River Hawks took first place at the event by placing three runners in the top ten and five in the top 15. Herring was once again in top form as she set a new course record with a time of 18:38. Gleason placed fourth at this year's event and was followed closely by sophomore Suzanne Kane, who finished in sixth place at the race.

Boston College played host for the 23rd annual New England Cross Country Championships where the River Hawks placed 19th overall, but second in Division II programs. Nicole Herring took 32nd place with a time of 18:17 which was first among Division II runners. UMass Lowell returned to Albany, New York on October 25 for the New England Collegiate Conference Championships. Herring was once again the top performer for the River Hawks as she placed second at the event and led the team to a second place finish. Her time of 18:38, just two seconds behind the first place finisher, earned Herring All-Conference honors.

UMass Lowell ended their season at the NCAA Division II East Regional hosted by C.W. Post. The River Hawks finished in 10th place at the race, once again led by Herring and her 12th place finish.

Hockey

A record sixth straight appearance in the Hockey East Final Four and the grand opening of the Tsongas Arena highlighted another successful season for the UMass Lowell Hockey Team.

Tuesday January 27, 1998 will always be remembered as both a historic and memorable occasion as a sellout crowd of 6,496 witnessed a new beginning in River Hawk Hockey. A gala celebration that featured visits from Massachusetts Governor Paul Cellucci, UMass President William Bulger, and the family of the late Senator Paul E. Tsongas marked the opening of one of the crown jewels of college hockey and a centerpiece for entertainment of the Merrimack Valley.

The River Hawks finished 11-10-3 in Hockey East. Their regular season included a clean sweep of rival UMass Amherst and capturing of the Alumni Cup. They made it to the Hockey East Semi-finals where they lost to Maine (6-2).

The leadership displayed by senior captains Shannon Basaraba (International Falls, Minn.) and Mike Nicholishen (Mississauga, Ont) carried over both on and off the ice, as Basaraba finished with 11 goals and 18 assists for 29 points on the season to go with 95 points (34 goals, 61 assists) in 142 career outings. Nicholishen, a two-time all Hockey East blueliner, added eight goals and 20 assists for 28 points despite missing seven contests, and he concluded his brilliant career with 27 goals and 72 assists for 99 points in 147 games. Fellow senior assistant captain Chris Libett (West Bloomfield, Mich) provided 14 assists in 29 outings with steady play at both ends despite missing seven games to injury as well. Senior netminder Martin Fillion (Winnipeg, Man.) finished with a flourish in the pipes for River Hawks, as he posted a 12-10-1 mark with a 3.27 goals against average and 569 saves for an .884 saves percentage. Fillion finished his career with 50 victories in goals for UMass Lowell with a 3.76 goals against average, making 2542 saves for an .879 saves percentage.

Wrestling

Wrestling opened their preseason on November 15 at the Roger Williams Invitational. They then traveled to Stroudsburg Invitational where the team members posted individual results and prepared for their regular season. The River Hawks would win their first dual meet of the season on November 25th as they defeated M.I.T. by a 28-13 margin. UMass Lowell would go on to win six of their next seven meets with their only loss coming against Division I Boston University. They finished their regular season with a 10-8 overall record. On February 28, 1998 the River Hawks traveled to Millersville, Pa. to compete in the 198 NCAA Division II East Regional Championships where they finished third out of nine teams. Senior Bob Belanger (Billerica, Mass) and sophomore Steve DiVirgilio (Saugus, Mass) qualified for the 1998 NCAA Division II National Wrestling Championships in Pueblo, Colorado. Belanger would compete in the 142 pound weight class and Divirgilio would compete in the 190 pound weight class for the River Hawks.

Men's Basketball

Youth, energy and enthusiasm are words that come to mind when describing the 1997-1998 UMass Lowell men's basketball team. With five of the the top six scorers gone from last years' twenty win season and ECAC Championship team, the Riverhawks had many young players who had an immediate impact. Head Coach Gary Manchel featured nine underclassmen on his roster to go along with two juniors and only one senior. The River Hawks were led by senior Ozan Korkut and junior captian Reggie Evans, both of who finished the year averaging double figures in points. The Riverhawks also received major contributions from freshmen Brian Bettano, John Gordon, and Casey Cowburn. Being such a young and inexperienced team, the Riverhawks started slow but finished the season strong with key victories over highly regarded Southern Connecticut and Sacred Heart. The 1997-98 River Hawks developed as the season progressed and displayed a solid foundation for the future.

Women's Basketball

The UMass Lowell Women's Basketball Team finished out the year 19-10. They captured the New England Collegiate Conference title for the second year and the third in four years by beating Franklin Pierce (65-59). (team record) Senior Shelia Knower and junior Jessica Bruce were named to the All-Tournament team while teammate Mookie Blaylock earned Tournament

MVP honors for the second year in a row. The Lady Riverhawks earned an automatic bid into the NCAA Division II Tournament. Unfortunately they lost in the first round to Franklin Pierce (59-65). Shelia Knower earned Player of the Year in the ECAC and NECC, while fellow Senior Co Caption Maureen Jennings earned Honorable Mention All NECC.

Men's Crew

It was another exciting year for men's crew. This team again competed against the toughest competition that New England has to offer. The men made great strides this season in both team and individual accomplishments. They came closer this year in trying to reach the lofty goals of their coach and themselves. Their spring regular season started off on March 28, where the men's varsity eight finished third. In the next three meets the men went on to show gradual improvements of their times in the men's varsity eight and varsity four. The highlight of the year was the UML Invitational, where men's varsity eight finished first.

Baseball

The UMass Lowell baseball team had another outstanding season under Head Coach Jim Stone, posting 30 wins in advancing to the NCAA Northeast Regionals once again. Five seniors were instrumental in the success of the River Hawks, with pitcher Mike Alonardo landing first-team All- New England Collegiate conference honors. Fellow pitcher Ryan Kearney wrapped up his stellar career this season and will leave as one of the top River Hawk hurlers of all-time, posting school records for wins in a career with 26 and strikeouts in a career with 205. While Alonardo and Kearney did the job on the mound, the senior trio of Dan Purtell, Steve Botto, and Mark Rurak did the job both in the field and at the plate. After starting slowly on the team's trip to Florida, UMass gained steam in breezing through the league for the conference title. The River Hawks, who finished ranked #16 in the country, finished 30-9 and 13-3 in the NECC.

Softball

The UMass Lowell softball team enjoyed many team and individual accomplishments throughout the 1998 season. The River Hawks finished the season with a 20-23 record on the season, the most wins since the 1995 team won 23 games en route to the ECAC Championships. The season was highlighted by a pair of victories over NCAA Division II Northeast Regional participants Assumption and A.I.C. Head Coach Harry Sauter's club took the first game of a doubleheader against A.I.C. as they defeated the Yellowjackets by a 3-2 margin. They defeated Assumption by the same 3-2 margin in the nightcap of the twinbill with the Greyhounds. The River Hawks also enjoyed a six game winning streak over NECC foes Bridgeport, New Hampshire College, and Stony Brook. That streak included 32.0 scoreless innings of play for Umass Lowell. Pamela McNeil and Sarah Gagnon earned individual honors at the conclusion of the season as McNeil was named to the all-NECC squad as a designated player and Gagnon joined her on the squad as an outfielder.

Men's Tennis

The men's tennis team started the season with many uncertainties at every position. They had a number of players who had never put on a UMass Lowell uniform. UML started off the season winning two out of it's first three matches, defeating St. Anselms and Salem State. The men fought hard for the rest of the season and were competitive in many of their remaining matches. At the New Englands the men had a respectable showing, for a team with little experience, finishing 13 out of 16 teams. Senior Alex Derby and Junior Matt Johnson had a strong year at number one doubles going 5 and 8. Matt Johnson also had a great year at number two singles finishing the season with a 7 and 7 record. This year was a growing experience for the Riverhawks, and with continued improvment the future looks bright for the UML men's tennis team.

The UMass Lowell golf team continued its strong play exhibited in recent years this season, proving they belong in the upper echelon of collegiate golf in New England. Led by junior Scott Pare, who paced the River Hawks in scoring with a 77.8 stroke average, UMass Lowell qualified for the NCAA North Regionals for the second straight season and third time in four years. While the team went 3-0 in dual meets in the fall, the River Hawks finished second among Division II schools at the Massachusetts Intercollegiate Championships and fourth overall. In addition to Pare, freshman Mike Calef, junior Shawn Roderick, senior Jason LeMay and junior Adam Tramonte played key roles for

SENIOR WEEK

Taking a Chance

After 4 plus years of hard work and dedication graduation is a mere week a way. Senior Week '98 kicked off the celebration with Billy Madison, Harrison Ford and high stakes, sort of. Free drinks and money falling to the floor... for some of us anyway. Playing black jack, craps and roulette with the high rollers or counting our quarters at the slots, money was everywhere. You could smell the greed in the air.

Long Live the King!

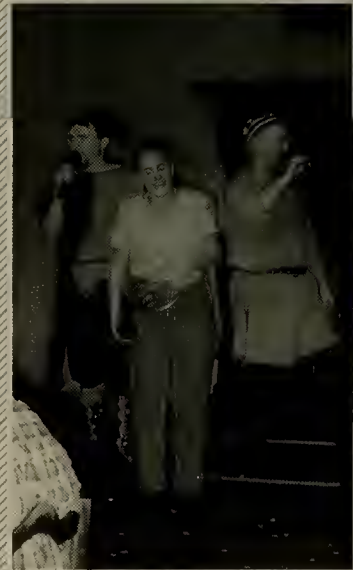

Eat, Drink and be Merry. Drink with the Jesters, dance with the Wenches but whatever you do don't upset the King.

Because if you want to travel the Canterbury Trail, you will need his permission. Toast and Boast, Wine and Beer, and hey, was that chicken? Remember, you don't have to steal the glasses, they are FREE.

Nicole could really honk a horn, Steve was a great peon, and who could forget Little Willie Wee. What was the capital of Kentucky? Beer? No, Frankfurt. But of course the highlight of the evening was Stacey winning the battle of the french bread (sexes).

Dayna Bergin

House of Blues Out and About

Oh, what a night to remember. Hot food to eat, cool music to dance to and friends to be with. We are three days down and three days to go until the real world just around the corner with graduation on Sunday. The sailors were on leave and the natives were restless. Men in uniform, who could blame them. House of Blues was anything but sad, it was a great time we all had.

Dayna Bergin

Senior Cruise

Sailing Away

The traditional harbor created an evening of glamour, exquisite food, exceptional music and we had our friends to celebrate the event. Smooth music upstairs and smooth moves downstairs. The luminescent glow of Boston gave the most colorful skyline view. Only to be seen from this majestic ship. This was our one last dance. Time for girls to play dress up and boys to put on their ties. Keep in mind many rode in on a big yellow school bus. The cruise was certainly the most memorable and fantastic evening we have ever had. It will go down in the record books as one of the best.

Red Sox Game

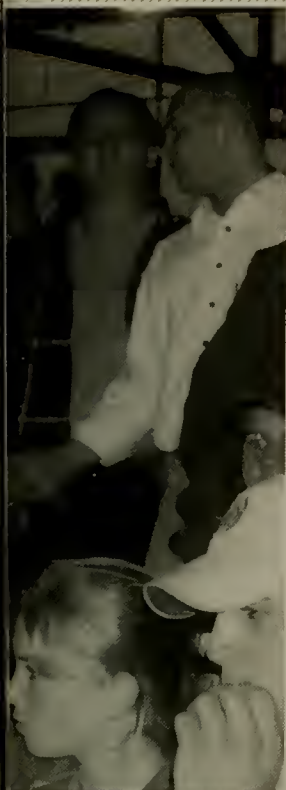

Stealing Home

Does anyone remember how we got there? It was a Friday night and the Sox lost, but we did get a great tour of Boston's best. One last night with the Green Monster, expensive snacks and seats in the nose-bleed section. Mo Vaughn hit two home runs and there was no line for beer behind home plate. From exercise physiology to plastics engineering, UMass Lowell was in the house.

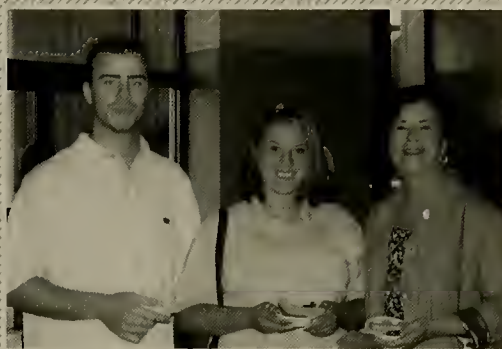

Just because the game went quick, didn't mean we had to. We had one hour in Landsdown street before us. We walked around Fenway, ate Italian Sausages, and visited fine local establishments, but most of all we were among friends. It was a great event to round out a week of exhausting activities.

Jazz Reception

A Touch of Style

This year's Jazz reception was a fun evening with friends, family and invited guests. After a long week of exciting and tiring activities this night gives the students a time to relax and unwind. Walking from group to group many conversations reflected on the week, semester and past years that the class had spent together.

We saw the Fox dining hall transformed into a beautiful reception area with a great jazz band and many hors d'oeuvres. For many of our parents, the last time they were in this room was for freshman orientation. It seemed such a short time ago that they said their hellos, now it is time for goodbyes. Thank you to all those who volunteered their service to the senior class.

COMMENCEMENT

Commencement Hats Off!

The University of Massachusetts Chorale began the Commencement Exercises under the direction of Dr. Christopher McGann, Coordinator of Chorale Activities, by leading us in the singing of the National Anthem. It was followed by a brief introduction by Dr. Susan Goodwin, Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance and a greeting by Representative Edward Le Lacheur. Other distinguished guests included, Representative Carol Cleven, Representative Colleen Garry, Dr. Tom Chmura, University of Massachusetts Vice President for Economic Development, and Trustees Mr. Charles Hoff, Mr. Heriberto Flores, and Mr. Keith Tremblay.

“As Sheriff of Middlesex County I hereby call the University of Massachusetts Lowell Seventh Commencement Exercises to order.”

The 1998 Class Officers led the graduates into the Tsongas Arena.

"It is my pleasure to welcome all who are assembled here to the Seventh Annual Commencement of the University of Massachusetts Lowell."

Representative
Edward LeLacheur

Chancellor William T. Hogan offered words of encouragement to the Class of 1998.

Mr. Gerald Paolilli, Chairman of the Alumni Relations Council recognized the 25th and the 50th Anniversary Classes of Lowell State College and Lowell Technological Institute.

Dr. Jerome Hojnacki, Dean of the Graduate College, presented those doctoral students with their degrees.

“As I stand before you I look into a sea of faces and I see more than graduates. I see powerful minds.” Dayna Bergin, President, Class of 1998

“When you set goals for yourself, it gives you something to strive for. It gives you a sense of purpose in your life. Goals provide us with direction. They help guide us and they provide us with a means for making important decisions. When there is something out there that you want badly enough, your day-to-day actions will be geared towards reaching that plateau.”

Matthew S. Hunt, Valedictorian

Commencement speaker Deborah Meier has spent more than three decades working in public schools as a teacher, writer and public advocate. She has demonstrated that children from all walks of life can live up to expectations of achievement and success if given an opportunity.

President

Dayna Lynn Bergin

This is indeed a day we can all celebrate, be proud of and reflect on. Our years and experiences at the University of Massachusetts Lowell have all been very distinct. But our biggest fear and our greatest accomplishment have become one. We can now breathe and move on. It has been the greatest time of our lives.

As we come to the end of the millenium, we must remind ourselves of what Hillary Rodham Clinton told us, "It is not the feminization of politics but the humanization." We must remember this, and we will all come together as one unit, one kind, and one race: the human race. We all share in this common thread, even though each of us has unique qualities, The only way to make this possible is through education. We must continue to place the utmost importance on education. For it is education that has created the minds we have now. Children need to learn there is excellence in education and it will help them lead successful lives in the future. And it is only through education that we can make anything, even the impossible, possible, and our dreams reality.

I challenge you to make your mark and to use you education to help others. If we all do our part we can make a very big and complex world a very simple and small place. Each of us has a responsibility to make that difference, to encourage change and to empower and help the advancement of all people. Remember that this is your country, your state, your city and your community, which we all live in and need to cultivate.

On a personal note, I would like to thank Professor Susan Gallagher, Dr. Marlowe Miller, and Dr. Ann Mulvey for showing me that there is no need to feel afraid or ashamed to be a woman with opinions. And I want to thank a faculty member who opened my mind to a new world, opened doors of opportunity, and lit fires in his students that will never burn out. Professor Dean Bergeron, thank you for teaching me that my work, not recognition, is what makes me important. I would also like to take the opportunity to thank my class officers, Shawn Mackie, Mark Girouard, and Hilary Lloyd.

Lastly, I would like to thank not only my family, but also all of our families. Two individuals have given me their everlasting love, patience, unending time and though they may not have always agreed with me, they have always given me their unending support. I could not have asked for two better people to call my Mom and Dad. Thank you and I love you.

Congratulations to the Class of 1998 and Good Luck with all your endeavors.

The last word

The production of a yearbook is more than just a student effort. It could not have been accomplished without the help of the Staff and Administration here at UMass

Lowell. Dean Ellen Duggan, Dean Tom Taylor, Jeannie Tremblay, Fran Flynn, Janice Larson, Mary Martin, Claire Hoffman, Tammy Millette, Office of Student Services, Brenda Evans, Jen D'Amour, Office of Student Activities, Deb Huber, Andrew Sherman, Mary Ann Karabatsos, The Connector Staff, Sterling Veihover, Student Government Association, Dana Skinner, Athletics Department, Sarah Hefferan, Brad Gosselin, Bryan Gosselin, Dayna Bergin, Shawn Mackie, Mark Giouard

As a staff we thank you for your support and willingness to help.

Thank you to all who have helped make this book a success!

In closing the 1998 yearbook, I would like to take this time to thank those who made my life easier throughout the year. First the staff, I am delighted to say that you were the staff that introduced me to the world of yearbooks. We've shared so many laughs, and those are the moments that will forever ring back in my head. I also want to thank you guys for the patience you all had with me. I realize that I jumped into the position of Asst. Editor and I was not always able to answer your questions. You all gave me flack, but I know you meant well.

Nate, well, all I can say to you is, Thank you! We've had some great times together and some not-so-great times together, but we've helped each other along the way. Lesley, you will be missed this year. You are gone but definitely not forgotten. You helped me this past year very much, and I will never forget you for that. Sterling, my pal, you were one of my biggest life savers, with life's tribulations and yearbook related instances. Whenever I got close to my breaking point, you always seemed to fly in playing your guitar and having some kind of a humorous story that would take my mind off whatever was burdening me. I never could have survived this year without you.

Hilary, I don't even know where to begin. You have given me so much more than just an understanding of the yearbook, you've given me a friendship that can never be replaced or forgotten. This survival of this book laid in your hands, and you chose to conquer the task and make this book great. You've inspired me and I hope, in the future, that I will do as well as you have with this book. Thank you for putting up with my amateur questions, and expect those questions to keep coming during the making of the 1999 book.

Sheri Kovalchek

Stephanie

Lesley and Sheri

...age as what I have learned in class.

The first thing that I would like to do is to thank those dedicated volunteers who came week after week. It means a great deal that I have a yearbook to take with me when I leave. Lesley, Pete, Ritu, Stephanie, Brion, Nate, Wayne, and Paul, I know how busy you all were. I appreciate how you came to each meeting and took on a piece of the book as your own. The generosity of your time, your creative ideas and your sense of humor are what made this year successful.

Mary, you gave me an opportunity I won't soon forget. You opened your office, your home, and your heart.

ate your honesty and your dedication.

Sheri, I can hardly believe that the year is over. I could not have made it without you. It seems like just yesterday we were racing chairs at 2 AM. Besides helping with the book and learning the ropes, you have become a good friend. You were always there to pitch in with some last minute thing, listen to me when I needed to talk or just make me laugh and take life less seriously. Thank you.

Finally, I would like to thank my mother and father for all their love and support. I could not have made it through this year or through college without you.
